APPENDIX 2: DEFINITION

No.	Covered Event	Definition
1	Alzheimer's Disease/Severe Dementia	Deterioration or loss of intellectual capacity confirmed by clinical evaluation and imaging tests arising from Alzheimer's Disease or Severe Dementia as a result of irreversible organic brain disorders. The covered event must result in significant reduction in mental and social functioning requiring continuous supervision of the Life Assured's parents. The diagnosis must be clinically confirmed by a neurologist. From the above definition, the following are not covered: (a) Non organic brain disorders such as neurosis; (b) Psychiatric illnesses; (c) Drug or alcohol related brain damage
2	Accidental Fracture of Spinal Column	A new spinal fracture caused by an Accident, and requiring hospitalisation for open surgical repair, or which results in a permanent neurological deficit in motor function or bladder function. The spinal column is defined as one bone as a whole, and the diagnosis of the fracture of the spinal column must be based on an examination of an X-ray or any other similar imaging technology acceptable to us by a specialist orthopaedic surgeon or a radiologist acceptable to us. The diagnosis of any neurological deficits must be made by a consultant neurologist or attending orthopaedic surgeon acceptable to us.
3	Surgical Excision of Spinal Meningioma	The actual undergoing of a surgical excision of a spinal meningioma by a consultant neurosurgeon. The diagnosis must be supported by CT or MRI and histopathological evidence.
4	Severe Osteoporosis with Fractures	The occurrence of Osteoporosis with Fractures where all of the following criteria are met: (a) At least a fracture of the neck of femur or two (2) vertebral body fractures, due to or in the presence of osteoporosis;

		(b) Bone mineral density measured in at least two (2) sites by dual-energy x-ray densitometry (DEXA) or quantitative CT scanning is consistent with severe osteoporosis (T-score of less than -2.5); and (c) Actual undergoing of internal fixation or replacement of the fractured bone.
